A choral concert exploring mental illness and the effect on composers and writers who suffered from such issues - including music by Bruckner, Rachmaninov, Gesualdo, Lassus, Holst, Elgar & Tchaikovsky.

Vox Coelestis is a unique choir of friends who sing together annually, purely to raise funds for charities. Its singers are drawn from the UK's top cathedral and chamber choirs, and are conducted by ex-Kings Singer and conductor of Tenebrae, Nigel Short. We are delighted to support this local charitable cause.

Proceeds go to The Abingdon Bridge Project
